SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. During October and November a large number of Chinese in Harbin joined the Chinese Communist "volunteer army" to fight in North Korea. Most of these people were unemployed or low-salaried government employees.
  2. In late November a Soviet employee of the Sunghuachiang (41-45, 125-55) district government office discovered a live bomb in the office and also that four rifles had been stolen from the office. The police were unable to find the guilty party. All members of the office were members of the Communist Party.
  3. In late November the former Foreign Affairs Office Building of CHANG Hsueh-liang at Number 1, Ti Tuan Street, Harbin, was occupied by the Sino-Soviet Friendship Association. Only Communist Party members were allowed to enter the building.
- C-3 1. In April 1950 the former Peiping Customs Building was being used as a center for non-military Soviet advisers to the Chinese Communist Government. The nature of their activities at the center is not known.
